INTERVIEWS AT BRITISH INDUSTRIES FAIR.

Indian interview.

J.P. 'Now sir, if I may ask you what town in India you come from.

Ind. 'Bombay'.

J.P. 'And do you anticipate placing big orders here?

Ind. 'Not many.

J.P. 'Not many. You've just come over to see the quality of British goods have you?

Ind. 'Yes,

J.P. ' And have you any impression yet on the quality of British goods?today?

Ind. 'I have not formed a perfect opinion as yet.

J.P. 'You are just doing a tour of the exhibition. Thankyou very much indeed sir.

West African interview.

J.P. 'May I ask you sir how far you've travelled to come to the fair?

African's Interpreter 'This chap doesn't speak English.

J.P. 'You are his intepreter?

Int. 'Yes.

J.P. 'May I talk to hims through you?

Int. 'Yes, certainly.

J.P. 'Now, where's he come from?

Int. 'Leopoldville, Belgain Congo, but he is Portuguese.

J.P. I see. Now will you ask him for me if he intends placing any big orders over here.

Int. speaks to African who replies.

Int. 'Yes, he intends placing quite big orders for textiles and machinery.

Interview with Chinaman.

J.P. 'May I ask what part of China you come from?to the fair sir?

China. 'From Manchuria.

J.P. 'Manchuria - that's a very long way. Are you placing big orders over here?

China 'Yes, I intend to.

J.P. 'I see. Is there any particular thing that you're interested in?

China 'Yes, in the scientific instruments.

J.P. 'Scientific instruments.

China. 'Yes.

J.P. 'Would you say, and this is rather a leading question but I'd like to have the answer from you. Would you say that British goods are the best goods.

China. 'I should think so, in the - on the scientific instruments and in many other lines.

J.P. 'Thankyou very much.
