INTERVIEW ROBERT DONAT.

-55

SV. Ladies and Gentlemen, Alexander Korda has very kindly consented suspended the film "A Knight without Armour" for a few moments to allow me to accord my deep gratitude of the Fingar Inhalation Treatment. For the past few months I have been working day and night in and out of doors in all weathers, and I sincerely believe that without the Fingard treatment I shouldn't be working at all. Good luck, thank you so much.

will reconsider their decision and grant me the privilege of staying here indefinitely.

SV. [This apparatus is used as a convenience to vaporise the medication as mostly everyone knows that warm dry air is beneficial to chest disorders, and I am therefore working on the principle that using a calcium-chloride container (tilt down to holding box) in which the air is passed through before it enters the room.] It is then heated by an electric heater and blown

CU cabinet. [The medication is poured through this filter and then runs out onto these twelve trays, and the warm dry air is borne over the medication and impregnates the room with the fumes the patient breathes.] It is not essential to have this apparatus by the fact that my treatment will cure an ordinary cold in comparatively a few hours by burning it on the electric tray.

SV pan up from cabinet to Fingard speaking. This apparatus is not definitely essential to the treatment but beneficial, by the token that you can use our medication and burn it on an electric tray and cure an ordinary cold in comparatively a few hours proves that the apparatus is only a convenience. (camera stop) This apparatus is not definitely essential to the treatment but beneficial, by the token that you can take this medication and burn it on an ordinary electric tray which will cure a common cold in comparatively a few hours.

CU Passport. Opens passport.

SV Man talks. As honorary treasurer of the society which has been formed, as General Sir Hubert-Goughe's chairman and a strong medical committee to place Mr. Fingard's treatment in the hands of the less well-to-do (camera stop) As honorary treasurer of this society which has been formed, as General Sir Hubert-Gough's chairman and a strong medical committee to place this treatment which Mr. Fingard has so generously donated within reach of the less well-to-do.

CU. His leaving this country will be a serious set-back to our efforts at a time when his/brains and energy are so necessary presence, in continuing the establishment of his treatment amongst the doctors of this country (camera stop) His leaving this country will be a serious setback to our efforts at a time when his presence, brains and energy are so necessary in continuing the establishment of his treatment amongst the doctors of this country, of whom 150 are already using, and about 5000 patients are awaiting treatment.
