Lines: Stagg.

Voice: do.

It's an indication of army preparedness in the Middle East that Mr. Eden has been there to confer with the High Command. The War Minister also had audience with King Farouk.

Out on the Western Desert Sudanese mechanised detachments are on the watch for the Italian offensive. These are typical warriors of native regiments serving with our army. Born soldiers, they adapt themselves amazingly well to the new warfare. Reconnaissance planes reported an enemy party out on patrol, and the Sudanese rushed forward.

--

Gazelles ! They can run faster than the Italian navy.

Soap-Box Derby.

Motor racing. A top-line event. Noted press writers. 50-thousand fans. And the automobiles ! Look at 'em. Raring to go; ready to burn up the track. It's the soapbox Derby. Every car home-built, inside a specified weight. The contest's open to boys between 11 and 15, and there's a £500 scholarship to college for the winner. Off they go, 300 yards downhill to the finish. Gravity gets them to the bottom, same as a Heinkel when a Spitfire's done with it.

The winner was Tommy Fisher, happiest kid in the States.

Track: Last Outpost.

Lord Lothian.

Saying temporary good-bye to the White House, Lord Lothian British Ambassador, here accompanied by Sir Walter Leyton, prepared to return home. The Ambassador is to make a personal report to the Government. Sir Walter Leyton is Ministry of Supply Commissioner in the States.

LEYTON SPEAKS:

"We have received much material aid from America in this time of crisis and we are deeply grateful but we need still more ships, guns, airplanes, everything and we need them now."
