

News Flashes: Stop Press:

Issue No. 1018..2..12..1940.

Book: You Can't Tell A Man By His Hat.

Title: All The King's Horses.

Discs: 479.422.

Lines: Stagg

Voice: Mellor.

Australia's already made the evacuees feel at home. They were taken to the Sydney Zoo, where the youngsters and the animals were soon big friends.

Up a gum tree they saw little Koalas - Teddy Bears come to life....
The next biggest favourite was the kangaroo.

These are Emus.

Little Doreen Valvona, who comes from Edinburgh, held one of the little bears and was the envy of all her friends. Then it was all the fun of the fair.

--
They'll be sorry when the war's over. What a pity thousands more British children aren't with them.

Track: Here to State.

Discs: 555.

Another batch of airmen trained in Canada are now in Britain - welcome evidence that the Empire training scheme is under way. They include one foreigner; who escaped from Czechoslovakia. Most of the rest are Canadian born and all make first-class flying men.

Track: Delighted to Meet You.

Discs: 555.

Tubes with bunks make the perfect deep shelter. Two miles of the uncompleted Essex extension of a London tube have been fitted out by the Leyton Council, and two thousand folks have picked up the knack of sleeping four-deep and enjoying it.

--
.... When would like your bath ?

One touch of snoring makes the whole world wake. To save him having 2,000 boots flung at him the offender's given a clothes-peg by the warden, their own anti-snoring device.

Track: Love in the Army.

Discs: 555.

The largest mobile hospital in the world has been presented to Britain by Americans and will soon be here. It's thoroughly equipped to give full hospital service to a hundred patients - a generous Twenty-thousand-pound expression of U.S. sympathy. It was an ambitious plan to include so much scientific equipment in a hospital of tents.

(See Back)