Frenchmen fought shoulder to shoulder with the British to drive the enemy out of Egypt. They are now pursuing him in Libya, as General Wavell continues to batter the retreating Italians. Lovers of liberty who fight under General de Gaulle's standard have put new heart into the French at home. As to the peoples of the French African possessions, they too had their part in defeating the Italians. They fight gallantly - repudiating Mussolini's claim to be the friend and protector of Islam.

(2 AFTER BEARDED FLAGBEARER) The warriors of French Africa, born to the freedom of the saddle, know they would be enslaved under Axis rule. In the desert the spirit of France has been reborn.

The Anglo-Hellenic League lunched at the Dorchester to celebrate the victories of the Greek Army. News of the Royal Navy's bombardment of Vallona raised spirits still higher. Mrs. Churchill sat next the Greek Minister.....This man you know....Sir Dudley Pound, First Sea Lord...Sir Charles Portal, Chief of Air Staff...Mr. Duff Cooper.

Lord Halifax concluded a tribute to our Ally's valour with the classic cry, LONG LIVE GREECE.

The Greek Minister, M. Simopoulous, spoke next.
