Looking encouragingly nautical in Trinity House uniform, and accompanied by Lord Provost Dollan, the Prime Minister visited Glasgow on his northern tour. Mr. Churchill complimented the ARP personnel on their fine work in the past few months. His inspection included a comprehensive review of the city's defences.

(ON TO SHIP) They build ships somewhere in these parts, but nowadays they don't talk about them. With the Premier went Mr. Harry Hopkins, one of the Americans who are over here, or on the way over, to find out for Mr. Roosevelt all they can about the war - or whether its just a rumour. Mrs. Churchill is now appearing more and more in public.

Seeing a great deal that censorship hides from the general public, and from Hitler, Mr. Hopkins declared himself assured of British victory.

Mr. Churchill said that victory will be decisive, though there's a hard road ahead. Winston Churchill speaks for The British Empire.
