1.	Question: "How great is our danger, Mr. President?"
2.	Gen. v. Pres. Roosevelt talking: "Never before since Jamestown and Plymouth Rock has our American civilization been in such danger as now."
3.	Semi-v. Roosevelt talking: "But we well know that we cannot escape danger, or the fear of it, by crawling into bed and pulling the covers over our heads."
4.	Question "What do you believe the dictators want, Mr. President?"
5.	Gen. v. Roosevelt talking: "The Nazi masters of Germany have made it clear that they intend not only to dominate all life and thought in their own country, but also to enslave the whole of Europe, and then to use the resources of Europe to dominate the rest of the world."
6.	Closeup Roosevelt talking: "The experience of the past two years has proven beyond doubt that no nation can appease the Nazis. No man can tame the a tiger into a kitten by stroking it."
7.	Question: "If we do not fight, Mr. President, what protection have we?"
8.	Gen. v. Roosevelt talking: "In a military sense Great Britain and the British Empire are today the spear-head of resistance to world conquest. They are putting up a fight which will live forever in the story of human gallantry."
9.	Question: "How then do you define our National Police, Mr. President?"
10.	Gen. v. Roosevelt talking: "Our national policy is not directed toward war. Its sole purpose is to keep war away from our country and away from our people."
11.	Semi-v. Roosevelt talking: "We must be the great arsenal of democracy. For us thus is an emergency as serious as war itself."
12.	Cu. Roosevelt talking: "There will be no bottlenecks in our determination to aid Great Britain. No dictator, no combination of dictators, will weaken that determination by threats of how they will construe that determination."
13.	Question: "And for the future, Mr. President?"
14.	Closeup Roosevelt talking: "We have every good reason for hope--hope for peace, hope for the defense of our civilization and for the building of a better civilization in the future."
