

GUARDS LEARN HOW TO BRING 'EM BACK ALIVE

Issue No. 1040..17..2..1941.

Title: March Of Blefusco.

Track: Man From Yesterday.

Discs: 555.

Lines: Stag.

Voice: Do.

The Guards are practising what to do with Germans if there's an invasion. Guerilla tactics, with all sorts of useful weapons, will come in handy for hand-to-hand fighting... For those that aren't shot there's a blunt instrument...and a nice garotting cord.

All letters and papers are removed before an enemy post is attacked; the idea being that if any of our men are taken prisoner there'll be nothing on them to identify their regiment.

On this manoeuvre the patrol was to surround a farm-house supposedly held by Germans. The men had to get as near as they could without being seen. It may look funny, but if the army didn't practise we might be sorry some day. Orders were to kill the sentry first...the drama heightens; watch it unfold.

Did his ears deceive him ? No. Call out the guard.

Oy-ee

The rest of the patrol wait to ambush the guard.

(SPRING ON GERMAN) They're very rough, aren't they ? But the guards must know how to crack a jerry.

(HALFWAY THROUGH CU TYING UP) If they practise invasion tactics again some of the guardsmen. will say, 'Look here, you chaps have got to be the Germans this time, or we shan't play.'
