The A.l. marksmanship of RAF gunners results from A.l training. A model plane, racing round a track, its speed controlled and varied at will, gives the student-gunners a tricky target. Watch the Airforce electric hare take a run.

(AFTER SPEEDOMETERS) Having seen the hare the gunners are introduced to the hounds, in the shape of gun turrets, in which they begin to learn their own end of the business, helped by a few words from the instructor.

(CRIPPLED PLANE) From all these operations the enemy returned well and truly winged, and riddled from stem to stern. Results of the shooting are carefully noted- all part of the training that makes us three-to-one top dog and brings the Nazis down.
