

R.A.F. CHIEF SEES 'FORTRESS' FLYING

Issue No. 1077..24..6..1941.

Title: Down Went McGinty...Track: Men With Wings.

Lines: Stagg.. Voice: Mellor.

More than ever the accent is on planes. Representative machines of the many types now coming from America were lined up for inspection by the RAF Commander-in-Chief. Sir Charles Portal was accompanied by General Cheney, U.S. Special Observer...Sir Charles examined the inside layout of a Flying Fortress, one of the super-heavy bombers which will enable us to bomb the enemy while the Nazis are busy with Russia.

This is a Tomahawk fighter - claimed to be the equal of the Spitfire.

A Douglas D-B. 7, which can be converted into an excellent night fighter.

(GV) American aircraft are in general without superiors in the world and are equalled only by our own. Great Britain thus enjoys the use of the finest warplanes in production. Sir Charles Portal saw the machines take the air - an arm of offensive in which we can heavily defeat the enemy in the west.

(4 SCENES WITHOUT VOICE...F/F LANDING) On neither side of the Atlantic must the pace be slackened. Overwhelming air preponderance will bring the enemy to his knees.
