Britain's latest tanks provided the thrills in the first 'Workers Only' tattoo. Three thousand munition workers chosen by lot from nearby factories brought their families to see the fruits of their labour.

(SV PARADE) The tattoo was organized by the Army Council to bring manufacturers and customers into touch. Valentines, Britain's killer tanks, went into action against pillboxes.

(BURNING BREN) There's a Bren-carrier knocked out.

(SV GIRL ON TANK) Then the visitors were allowed to join in the fun, plus some dive bombing by the RAF.

(SCENE AFTER GV PLANE DIVING) The display gave the workers first-hand knowledge of what the Army will do just as soon as they've got all the tanks they need to go over and take the Nazis for a ride. Now they know, that day will dawn all the sooner.
