The greatest land concentration of armoured forces ever seen in Britain was inspected by the King when a complete armoured division, comprising many thousand vehicles, assembled somewhere in the Eastern Command. Incidentally, that such a great concentration could be held shows clearly who rules the skies over Britain. What a target !

(3 GENERALS) It was the army's big day. As Commander-in-Chief, Home Forces, General Brook received His Majesty on arrival, and escorted him to the saluting-base for the march past. With the King on the platform, Major-General Martel, Royal Armoured Corps, pointed out the various vehicles that form an armoured division.

(AFTER CU KING) Valentines, Matildas, Crusaders - Britain's latest powerful tanks - form the striking force.

(ANGLE GUNS) Artillery - 25-pounders that prepare the way for the tanks.

(CU KING) And now as the King watched, the march past began, fast light tanks, cruiser tanks and heavies roared into gear.

(BACK MASS SHOT AFTER CU PAN) With the drive for more and more armoured divisions at full blast, the call has come for tanks for Russia. Britain willingly responds. They'll be sent as fast as we can get them there. But what we all want to see is our own armoured divisions roaring into action against the Nazi hordes. When that day dawns the production rate will soar to a figure that'll make even guinea-pigs blush.
