

gunners give Kesselring no quarter

Reinforcements landing on the Nettuno beachhead came in for air and land bombardment from forces hastily brought up by the enemy.

That is one ~~hammer~~ Stuka making its last dive.

American nurses went ashore soon after the beachhead was established. Some of them have been killed in a German bomb attack on a field hospital.

Artillery ~~units~~ ~~units~~ were visited by the new 8th Army commander, Gen. Leese. Newsreel sound cameras now bring to you the impressive din of modern war.

-
Disappointingly slow as this Italian war is, there are signs that Nazi resistance ~~may~~ soon be overcome. [↑] Among latest batches of prisoners used as infantry, the presence of skilled engineers indicates that Kesselring is hard pressed. Nazi dive bombers have intensified their attacks.

-
Sundown patrols go forward and the gunners blaze out through the night.

-
At dawn the wounded are brought back to ~~the~~ safety ~~of~~ our ~~own~~ lines. Newsreel cameramen are getting in touch with the Tommies. Driver Alex Burt sends a message home.

-
Driving into Foggia comes Tommy Trinder, making a tour of the Italian front and giving roadside shows wherever he gets the chance.