

YANKS HELP SALUTE SOLDIER

London's salute the soldier week was enlivened by the march of 3,000 men and women of the U.S. armed forces. The procession took half an hour to pass and it was the first sight many people had had of the very ~~militarily looking~~ soldierlike man who ~~will~~ will soon be in action on the second front.

It was a democratic scene as they crossed Westminster bridge, the Mother of Parliments, imposingly in the background.

In Trafalgar Square the U.S. deputy European commander, Lieut. General Lee, took the salute.

Lee had good
(26 Gen) Gen. ~~Bishop~~ deputy had every reason to be gratified with the fine appearance of the ^{US} forces ~~passing~~ ~~had~~ ~~them~~. It spells the doom of Hitler that, ~~at this late~~ ~~stage in the war~~, the allies can ^{now} put fresh, ~~highly trained~~ armies in the field, to finish the job.
