

ENGLAND BEAT SCOTS AGAIN

On the field to greet the teams at Wembley was King Haakon of Norway. The Stadium's biggest war-time attendance of ninety three thousand benefited war charities by £23,000.

England Captain Mercer beat Baxter for the toss and Scotland kicked off. The Scots were all out to preventing them beating them for the fifth time in succession, and throughout the first half it looked as though they'd succeed.

The game was only a few minutes old when centre forward Milne put Scotland one up.

(Bevin) Scotland led by that one goal when England kicked off for the second half. From now on the game was completely transformed. At centre forward for England, Lawton played an inspired game. His first goal put the score level. England scored five more, before time was called.

~~So England ran out~~

So England won six-two in the most sensational game at Wembley since the ~~day~~
Wembley for some years.
