

NEW FIGHTER WILL AID NAVY IN PACIFIC%

The Fleet Air Arm equips itself for the forth-coming sea battles in the Far East. Latest addition to its fighter strength is the two-seater Fairey Firefly.

Built for the long range warfare of the Pacific, Firefly has all the grace of a single-seater fighter and probably much of the speed, though details on that score are still highly secret. New type wing flaps give the aircraft outstanding manoeuvre power at high speed.

Firefly will give a good account of itself when almost the whole of our naval strength can be switched against Japan.