

ROOSEVELT VICTORY FIRST PICTURES

On the eve of his re-election President Roosevelt drove through New York - ~~his final campaigning before the polls.~~ It was pouring with rain but the weather was disregarded, both by F.D.R. and the thousands who turned out to cheer,

Leading the Republican party to the polls was Governor Dewey, rival candidate. And at the Town Hall in Hyde Park, near the Roosevelt private estate, the President voted for himself, for the fourth time

All kinds of mechanical aids helped to count the fifty million votes.

Broadcasting stations told America how the election was going. Tired journalists sent the latest news to morning papers, and as the results poured in from all over the vast country half a million people jammed Time Square, New York, for election night ~~watching~~ statement.

At three in the morning, Governor Dewey knew he was beaten.

Congratulations poured <sup>in</sup> on the President and his family at the White House. They came from all over the world.

At the ~~Wardour~~ <sup>Waldorf</sup> Astoria Hotel the President had something to say on the future of Germany.
