

GREEK QUARRELS DISTURB ATHENS

All is not well in Greece. Parties and factions which to some extent united against the enemy are now at daggers drawn. Wreaths were laid at the tomb of the ~~Unknown Soldier of the K.K.E. party - left wing of the National Liberation Party~~

Unknown Soldier on the anniversary of the K.K.E. ~~party~~ - left wing of the National Liberation Party. This ceremony took place before the lamentable shooting up of a crowd by the police, a few days later, but ~~the~~ already the stage was set for serious trouble. At a new ~~another~~ monument, ~~set up~~ in honour of those killed in the struggle against Germany, more tributes were paid. It's unfortunate that the British Army, obliged to maintain order in Greece to protect allied communications, may be charged with taking sides. Mr. Churchill has told Parliament that it is ~~he should~~ not do so.

(TV) Happily on this occasion there was no shooting, no riots. ~~The~~ The day passed ~~off~~ with no more than a noisy letting off of a lot of steam.
