

SUPPLIES POUR INTO ANTWERP.

Whole convoys of Allied supply ships are now going in and out of Antwerp. The ~~possesion~~ possession of this port is one of the biggest military prizes won since D-Day.

The damage done by the enemy was trivial and most of it was repaired between the ~~capture~~ capture of Antwerp and the storming of the Scheldt estuary. Failure to demolish the port completely, presumably in the hope that they would never lose the town, was the biggest mistake the Germans have made in the west. No docks on the continent are better equipped, ~~than~~ Supplies go in in shortest possible time.

(Bren) Thanks to Antwerp the Aklies can now ~~accumulate~~ accumulate all and everything they need for the final assault.