The old Polish city of Lublin has received many heavy blows.

The Germans wrecked many buildings ...

The Townhall was burned.

Lublin is an ancient Polish city. Its ancient monuments of the past were wrecked by the Germans.

They destroyed everything. Polish... They erased the Polish names of the streets, and substituted German names.

The Germans converted Lublin Castle into a prison. The walls of the Castle witnessed unheard of scenes of ferocious brutality.

When Soviet tanks reached the city the Gestapo shot 700 Polish prisoners here.

This large hall was used as a prison workshop. The German torturers shot the people down while they were at work here.

They were shot down from behind.

In the courtyard of the prison they were shot down by machine-guns.

These are the relatives of the victims.

Seven hundred innocent victims.

Only two remained alive. Severely injured, they were hidden under piles of corpses.

They will tell the details of this monstrous crime to the court which tries the Hitlerite torturers.

Here by the walls of Lublin Castle the whole population gathered to attend the funeral of the victims of the Hitlerite terror.

The funeral became a demonstration of the wrath of the people of Lublin.

There are the victims! Hundreds, thousands of people tortured, murdered, poisoned, burned to death!

The Polish people will never forget and never forgive the torturers who did to death millions of Polish men, women, old people, and children.

Eternal hatred and contempt for the murders! They shall be condemned by the whole world!

Lublin has been liberated!
The Red Army has removed the German yoke from one of the finest cities in Poland.

The city suffered greatly during the years of German occupation, and now it comes to life again.

Detachments of Peoples Militia have been organised to maintain order.

Units of the Lublin Division of the Red Army continue their way through the city, and the citizens cheer the heroes as they march in pursuit of the enemy.
