1.	In the morning the general presented regimental colours that have been laying in the Les Invalides during the war. This is the first time they have seen on any military ceremony since the capitulation.
2.	Afterwards he took the salute from various units of the French forces. Shots of cavalry, are the mounted Republican Guards.. The ceremony took place at the Place de La Concorde.
3.	In the afternoon the General presented Paris with a liberation medal at the Hotel De Ville after making a somewhat long speech.. in which he pointed out that Paris thanks to the underground movement, liberated itself.
4.	This story was covered very comprehensively by the French reels both sound & silent including Naintre the Paramount man. He tells me all the stuff they shoot is sent to Paramount, however I tried to cover the story the best as would the position they xxxxx allowed me, to move about was very difficult, in a complete story form.
5.	The reaction of the British & U.S. press here to the whole affair, was that it might have been left over for the time being, as there were other phases of the war to be considered. Light conditions were bad.
6.	Two French newspapers enclosed.
