

HOME FROM THE JAPS.

The New Zealand liner Monowai brought home to Britain 650 Navy, Army and Air Force men from Japanese captivity. Disembarking at Liverpool were men who for three and a half years suffered the rigours and tortures of the Jap prison camps. From living death into the arms of wife and mother. Feeling was too deep for speech.

Into Southampton sailed the liner Corfu. Nearly <sup>13- hundred</sup> ~~10,000~~ prisoners of war were aboard.

Women of the W.V.S. gave them cigarettes and chocolates as they stepped onto the quayside. It can be imagined that for every man coming ashore this must have been among the happiest moments of his life. Freedom, so long withheld had come almost too suddenly to be fully realised.
