

SUBJECT SIX: These suicide boys, the HellDrivers, are back in action for the first time since the end of gas rationing and their enforced layoff hasn't slowed them up a bit. Open 6 ft) They flirt with death every second of the run as the sock model cars sway perilously as steady hands fight to keep them under control, and just for variety's sake they prove a flaming fence is no match for a hard head (open thru crowd) The slow motion camera reveals the audacity of these daredevils, deliberately somersaulting the car end over end, holding tight until it settles back on its wheels (Open 8ft) But the top thrill for the crowd at the State Fiat in Trenton, N.J. is dished up by Johnny Rogers who drives with 2 broken ribs as he takes his steed up the steepest ramp of all, skimming over a truck into the roofs of a line of jalopies (open to men run out) Back to earth without a scratch, but not recommended for Sunday drivers.
