

FLASHES FROM AMERICA.

The midget car appears in the last place you'd expect, America. The virtues of something small enough to do forty miles ^{per} gallon are attracting quite a lot of people.

Something in the home made variety is the windjammer, so far unable to get a licence as the authorities deny it's a car at all.

Home made but quite high-class is the Retzell - name of the maker, - who put it together from odds and ends he found on the junk heap. It cost him less than a £100 and does sixty five miles an hour.

Over to the Dog Show - the first held in New York since Pearl Harbour. 5,000 of the best bred dogs in the country entering the Kennel Club championships. Every one made to look his best.

~~It's wonderful what the word Dog includes if it's pushed far enough. The Dog world is Mrs. Mop & Dog World.~~

~~Ernest Devin isn't more English than this chap.~~

It's a sad world, if you come to think about it, isn't it?

Wonderful & the word Dog includes its perfect
The St. Bernard may think he's very handsome, but if you far eno want a real good locker, well, I meantsay.

1. TITLE: DOGDOM'S BIGGEST DAY!
2. Every dog has his day, but in Manhattan it's the biggest day of all for over twenty five hundred of America's top canines. The Westminster Kennel Club show reaches its climax as this English Springer Spaniel and a pointer, the Dutchess of Oakholm, are readied for the final competition.
11. A miniature snauzer receives last-minute touches with every dog on tenterhooks. Hey, is somebody shaking a mop? No, it's only a poodle, frightened, as who wouldn't be by this he-man ontry.
15. Every shape, size, color and temperament in the canine book is here. And if they were handing out prizes for weebogone looks, this fellow would be covered with blue ribbons. Others in the running include "Baroness", a miniature pincher, and this St. Bernard, a giant who must dread every meat shortage that comes along. A toy poodle puts on a show of his own.
23. Then, payoff in the kennel world as the judges take over. Competition is sharp as a dog's tooth. And here's the best of show. Champion Hetherington Model Rhythm, a fox terrier, also named best American-bred in the show. Meet the champ.
