

MOB RIOTS IN BRUSSELS

What was to have been an orderly procession broke into a riot when fifty-thousand men from all parts of Belgium, former war-prisoners under the Germans, went to the Parliament building in Brussels. They were calling attention to non-payment of pensions and promised war bonus. When they got out of hand it was a free for all between rioters, lunchtime crowds and police. Machine guns were fired over their heads.

It went on most of the afternoon till the government promised to grant the pensions demanded.
