	The bleed will be distributed and used as such in Hospitals in )	S.W. England. If it is unused at the end of three weeks it will be turned into Plasma. S.W. England required between 500 and 600 pints per week. Between 80% and 90% will be used in natural bleed form. Each normal adult has between 9 and 10 pints of bleed.
	Scenes are G.V. of Ship and a number of training activities on deck. The men are mostly recruits. The sick-bay is very cramped but 5 were done at a time.
	Each extraction took up to 10 minutes. None of the Doners were taken ill.
	Ten bettles go to a box and it is seen being taken to a launch.

CENE	COMPLETE DESCRIPTION OF SCENES.
	The location is at the Southmead Hospital just outside Bristol.
	The building was the wartime Army Blood Bank. It is now the M.O.H. S.W. regional Blood Transfusion Centre.
	Scenes show:-
	The arrival of the van with Nelson's Blood. It is off loaded and put straight away in the cold chamber, which is at 4 deg Centigrade. The blood is also grouped, and the girl is seen doing part of the test to ascertain the groups. The small frig door which is opened contains blood of the universal group and is kept apart for rush cases and night emergencies.
	Attached is some dope.
