When the pool room's crowded and you're waiting for a table, the man's a marvel .

Leaving Sthodox play to Joe Davis, Yonders holds the field in his own particular bag of tricks.

Leon Yonders, New York's pool-table wizard, challenged all-conters in the States to dispute his claim to be the world's best back-haned trick-shot merchant. For a start he disposed of all six balls in different pockets.

1. TITLE: NEWEST IN CUE WIZARDRY!

2. New York --- Introducing Leon Yonders, wizard of the pool table,

In performing his amazing tricks, Leon works backhanded, with his right arm stretched all the way around to the left. The idea here is to place all six balls in six different pockets.

- 7. Now, this nimble-fingered onjurer of the cue finds himself behind the eight ball. But does that bother Leon? Hardly.

- 10. What's up now? Rack the balls in the ordinary way, and then put the world's backhand champion to work on it, with results like this.
- 13. And for a smashing, speed-up finish, Leon goes to work on a little number called cleaning up the table. Back-handed, frantic, and almost unbelievable, that's this one-man Who's Who of what a cue can do.
