

NO HOME FOR MISS GLUCKSBURG

Sunninghill Park, near Ascot, was more than half destroyed by a mysterious fire which broke out in the night. The foreman of a demolition squad at work in the grounds gave the alarm, and 75 firemen, pumping water from the lake, fought the blaze till after sunrise. Their efforts saved the mansion from being completely gutted.

(angle)

Sunninghill was to have been the home of Princess Elizabeth after her marriage. A real bit of bad luck.