

STAR PIPES COMPETE FOR WORLD TITLE

Edinburgh sat up and took notice when the finest Pipe Bands in Scotland invaded the capital to contest the championship.

On Murrayfield each band in turn gave of its best, and the skirl of the pipes, grandest of all music to the ear of the true Scot, wafted over the city.

Hidden from sight, but not by any means from sound, the judges impartially gave their verdict, without being able to see the performers, and so possibly have their judgments influenced by friendship or the reverse.

~~There were also~~

There were also competitions for Highland dancing; a chance here for the young of both sexes to show their skill.

~~It can't do anything about the~~

Piper
3200

✓