

COAL MINING

There was good news from Grimethorpe Colliery, origin and centre of the Yorkshire coal strike, when the men decided to attend a meeting at Cudworth to reconsider their attitude. Miners' leaders had said that a hundred and forty men at Grimethorpe had held up the industry in a strike which has cost the nation well over half a million tons of coal. When the meeting was over the men announced their decision to return to work.

Pressmen gathered at the
