

LORD BUTE GIVES CASTLE TO CARDIFF

Cardiff Castle, parts of which date back to Norman times, flew the standard of the Marquis of Bute for the last time when with its modern additions and grounds it was presented ~~by~~ to the City of Cardiff by the present Marquis of Bute.

The Lord Mayor led the procession of Civic dignitaries through the city to the gateway of the castle, where the formal presentation was made. Lord Bute said he was happy to make the gift to the city long associated with his family.

From that moment the ^{magnificent} castle passed into the keeping of the great port of South Wales. Truly a noble gift.
