

CRACK WALKERS HOOF THRO' PARIS

Three hundred

~~A hundred and fifty competitors~~ took part in the Walkers' Grand Prix organized by the Paris newspaper l'Humanite.

~~It was a sporting fixture revived after wartime suspension.~~ Setting out from the Place de la Republique they didn't even stop at the Moulin Rouge but carried on all round the town, putting a brave face on everything One competitor looked to be in quite the wrong getup till he turned out to be a conscientious cameraman doing his bit for his bread and butter. The great mystery about walking races is why on earth they don't break into a run and have done with it. One man did better; ~~he took~~ fed up

He footwork he took the bus home.

Still in the race and well up with the leaders the camera-man took some revealing closeups.
