

A ROYAL 'PREVIEW.'

Princess Elizabeth and Lieutenant Philip Mountbatten posed for the newsreel cameras at Buckingham Palace, perhaps the last giving formal pictures that will be taken of them, before the wedding. Under the influence of the approaching happy event the whole Royal Family were in good spirits as they underwent the familiar ordeal by camera.

(1 out) Lieutenant Mountbatten has good cause to count himself a fortunate young man, especially as his royal bride has ^{is} ~~no intention of following~~ the modern practice of omitting the word 'Obey.'....

A royal bride declines to follow the modern practice of omitting the word Obey.... Good reason is if any husband = smile.