

ROYAL SPECTATORS WATCH OLYMPIC HORSE TRIALS

The Queen and other members of the Royal Family took a short holiday from the official round and went to Badminton, the Duke of Beaufort's seat in Gloucestershire. There the Royal party saw some of the cleverest riders of both sexes competing in the Olympic Horse Trials. In the Land Rover it was very nearly standing room only. Captain W.J. Frisby took the fallen log obstacle very neatly on Leaping Well. ^{On 7} Throughout the day the British team beat both Irish and Continental opposition in the endurance, speed and cross-country test.

30

50

88

The trials proved that we have a wealth of talent, all keeping their eye on the next Olympics, ^{and} The three days at Badminton provided an ideal country interlude for the Royal Family.