

FLASHES!

At Supreme Headquarters near Paris General Ridgway handed over his Command in Europe to General Gruenther. The new Supreme Commander told the Press Conference that the West still had a long way to go, especially in air power and supplies, before we <sup>e secure.</sup> could consider ourselves ~~anything like secure.~~

30 At Meadow Brooke Club the Duke of Windsor relaxed from writing on royal matters in a Sunday newspaper to take part in charity golf, proceeds to go to the Boy's Club of New York. Celebrity number two in the charitable cause was none other than our Mr. Hope, who can address a golf ball as effortlessly as he gets laughs from the audience. ~~Mr~~ The ~~Rhagmbambadpma~~ road to the green was easy. No Bing he had, no Dorothy Lamour, yet sank his putt to get an easy four.

~~For that reason~~ <sup>sfx</sup> The Golf Writers' Association gave him an award for answering the call of charity.

20 Cheers for the pioneers, <sup>t</sup> the brave lads fighting the battle for us all against the dull clothes tailors force us to wear. So why not for us too the new look, the cut, the style, the slanting pockets and anything else designers can think of. With animals it's <sup>v</sup> the male that takes the eye, so why should man be drab.

I say, What a becoming hat.... Of course, if you go in for colour in a big way everything simply has to match, including dear <sup>Fifi.</sup> ~~Rhombus~~.

When a dog has to work for his living as an 'equilibrant' he's no time for that clothes nonsense. This talented performer is named Sepp, but don't speak to him or you might upset the whole act.

170 ~~157~~
Sepp gets so much attention those fashionable dogs aren't in it. Eh, Fifi?

Sepp's master trained him to bring up the morning tea, but he would eat the sugar.
