In the garden of Number Ten the Prime Minister was host to Signor De Gasperi, newly re-elected Premier of Italy, here on a 2-day visit. Both statesmen have only slender majorities, but it was not to compare notes on parliamentary tactics that they met, but to discuss the forthcoming conference at Bermuda.

Korea: Up in flames went a United Nations fuel dump at Inchon. Bombing in this war has been almost a one-sided affair, but this time the Reds hit back with their biggest raid so far. There was no argument about it; it was an enemy hit right on the target. What a tragedy that with a truce almost in the bag Sygman Rhee's release of North Korean prisoners makes the fighting go on. How many miles-per-gallon went west here goodness only knows.

Bound for Korea a Globemaster crashed soon after taking off from Tachikawa, near Tokio. 129 men killed. Seven were the crew, the others soldiers returning to the front from leave. An engine failed just before the plane fell, ~~It was~~ <sup>in</sup> the biggest disaster of aircraft history. All Globemasters in the Far East are now grounded pending investigation. ~~70 bodies were recovered, the rest were unrecognisably charred.~~

KOREA NEW TENSIONS AS TRUCE IS AWAITED

The dimensions of war in Korea outwardly unchanged -- despite the imminence of an armistice. / For the U-N command, grave problems, such as repair of P-W stockades and sending in of American troops to replace South Korean guards, following the escape of 27 thousand anti-Communist North Koreans.

Meanwhile, from Inchon, films of a spectacular fire! A large Allied fuel dump in the port city set afire in the heaviest enemy aerial bombing raid of the war. The night attack came before a blackout alert could be sounded.

Heroic firefighting efforts could not prevent the flames from consuming many acres of petroleum products. Fuel cans explode in a weird display of pyrotechnics. Almost on the eve of the Korean war's third anniversary, and while the truce-signing is awaited, the flames of aggression still blot out the Korean sky!
