

OPEN GOLF CHAMPIONSHIP

- 7 A Carnoustie copybook for those who model themselves on the masters, Stranahan's drive for instance.
- 15 Or Thompson of Australia's fluent stroke.
- 20 Better still the unruffled genius of Hogan under the eye of the crowds.
- 29 Stranahan's chip shots are worth the practice.
- 37 De Vincenzo has the nerveless wrists for a sure putt.
- 43 Or take a leaf from Dai Rees. BOOK
- 50 But for Ben Hogan, playing for the first time in Britain, on a windy seaside course, with the outspoken Scottish crowd on top of him, it could have been unnerveing.
- 64 The Open is a long and gruelling experience and Frank Stranahan made no bones about his pleasure when his longish putt came off/and he made it a free ball for somebody.
- 91 It's two holes to go and Hogan driving from the 17th tee.
- 97 On the green he putts/and misses.
- 108 But at the last hole there's no longer any doubt and all his concentration and study of local conditions has paid off.
- 123 Bobby Locke was human enough to show regret at defeat.
- 128 But it is to Hogan goes the Cup at the hands of Lord
Provost McLaughlan, and the ~~steely blue eyes and grim mouth are~~ HE RELAXES IN SHEER PRIDE PLEASURE ~~set in~~ in sheer pride and pleasure.
