~~five~~ ^{battalions} on the Arnhem anniversary three ~~territorial divisions~~
 10 staged the Territorial Army's biggest airborne exercise to date. The sparetime soldiers included two men who 20 took part in the actual battle nine years ago. / every

 35 ted. Twenty-seven flying box-cars lent by the American occupation army in Germany (pilots providing own cigars) 40 dropped 1200 paratroops, also ^{trucks and} 25-pounder ~~guns~~ ^{guns}, 45 ~~guns and trucks~~. The men were supposed to be landing 50 behind enemy lines to nip an offensive in the bud. They were dropped close together, almost in pairs, to make a concentrated ~~attack~~ ^{force}.
 The forty square miles of warren and woodland on the Norfolk-Suffolk border made ideal country for the manoeuvres.
 Guns and other heavy equipment were landed when the 20 paratroops had consolidated their position.
 Special platforms were attached to the heavy stuff. They automatically expand during the drop and cushion the bump.
 15 How they work is secret. In the Airborne Territorials the men of Arnhem have worthy successors.
