

DUKE INSOECTS REGIMENT IN GERMANY%

From an RAF Devon aircraft he'd flown himself the Duke of Edinburgh landed at Luneburg aerodrome. He was in Germany to inspect the now mechanised 8th King's Royal Irish Hussars, of which he is Col.-in-Chief. Lt.-Col. Lowther escorted H.R.H.

Conspicuous among the modern armour ~~ammunition~~ Hussar barked back to times when the transport scorned petrol and said nay, give us hay.... Of the 400 men on parade 190 fought in Korea, where several earned decorations. The Duke said there was obviously nothing wrong with the regt., and if the rest of the army was up to that standard there was nothing wrong with the army.
