

UNDERWATER PICNIC

Why are the bright young things content with the old jalopy? Well, if you took ^{one of those motor show cars} ~~a modern car~~ to the water and did make it swim it wouldn't look the same again.] They're going for ~~the~~ the world's first picnic under water.

(GV) They ~~brought~~ brought everything with them. The fire behaved perfectly and in no time at all there were hot dogs all round.
Absolutely no deception; you can see for yourself. [There are two great advantages - down here the midges don't bite and if it rains you don't ~~know~~ ~~it~~. ~~Another thing~~ they didn't know was they were trespassing. Picnic turned to panic when a young alligator dropped in and said scam.

46

Sept. 29, 1953

Music: Paris Hotel (Great Loves) PN439
Prelude (Dear Brat) PN573

Jaxson
Watson

Non Issue #13

WET GROUNDS DON'T STOP THIS PICNIC!

When high school is out in Silver Springs, Florida, it's natural to go picknicking. And, if you don't mind a little humidity what better spot is there than Father Neptune's backyard? You don't have to worry about traffic congestion, and Davey Jones' locker probably contains whatever you're missing for that wienie roast. Yum, yum, or rather glub, glub. There's always the chance for a fish fry. Well, at least we don't have to worry about ants at this outing. Oh, oh,

Maybe we'll settle for ants, after all!