

WHAT TYLER ?

Let's block the main roads, said French farmers. Anybody who wants to pass had better step on it. He just made it; and then traffic was stopped. The French have always believed there are ~~more~~ ways of chivvying the Government than just voting, the best way being to man the barricades. The present frolic was by way of protest against ^{the} heavy fall in prices. Farmers say they get next to nothing/corn and cattle, though shop prices rise. Short interruption here while an army lorry ~~goes~~ through; then back went the barricades. To our eyes it's unorthodox but if it brings justice to the farmers, all's well, unless you're a motorist & a girl friend
