Rosch and Terne won. Good start for the New Year. On the Olympic jump Europe's best skiers had their first big engagement of the season. Conditions were bad. ■ Driving snow made records out of the question. Moland of Norway set a high standard as the competition began.

(spectators) Eino Kirjonen, of Finland, won second place, despite a fall.

(next) His countryman, Silvennoinen was third. 24-year-old Aulis Kallakorpi, also Finland, won the event, twice ~~jumping~~ leaping 265-feet.

Quite a day for Finland.
