

Stanley Matthews, now world famous, was warmly welcomed to Kenya, where he's on an exhibition tour. The box office for the ^{fb} opening game opened at 1.30, though the kick off wasn't until five. Matthews played for a Kenya ~~Side~~ XI against an African side. Absent, of course, were those 100% enthusiasts who enliven our own football grounds, Nairobi wens one better; ~~a~~ real live witch-doctor, ^{(one for} ~~the~~ Matthews) ^{to other accounts.} ~~Another case has arisen on the other side.~~ The deputy Governar, the President of Kenya F.A. and the Mayor of Nairobi supported the match. The ~~F.A. side~~ ^{Kenya team} lost, beaten by the Africans, 2-0. The locals' big idea was to keep the ball away from Matthews. That's how they won.
