

In the Sheldonian Theatre Oxford conferred a well merited honour upon that very welcome visitor to Britain, the former American President, Mr. Harry S. Truman. Before an audience of 1200 the public orator praised Mr. Truman's high qualities of statesmanship. The degree of Dr. of Civil Law was conferred upon him, evidently to the pleasure of a man who worthily occupied the highest office in the world.