

CYPRUS STORY

Villagers near Famagusta stand motionless, and one of their own village children, an eight-year-old boy, lies dead, killed by a bomb thrown by one of his own kind, a student of seventeen who was shot as he tried to get away.

20 >1 Near Nicosia, British troops continue the search for hidden arms and the men of the South Staffordshire Regiment and the Kings Own Yorkshire Light Infantry have learned from experience that nothing is unlikely as a hiding place. Every house and every farmyard is investigated while civil police stand guard.

41
22 Meanwhile Judge Shaw, wounded by terrorists ^{recently} ~~two weeks~~ ago, returns to duty.

—00000000—

50

Men of the Royal Warwickshires prepare to leave the troubled island, their tour of duty over,
as news comes from London that the Prime Minister had called an emergency meeting to discuss the Cyprian question following the latest outrages in which two British civilians had been ^{and} ~~with~~ ^{lost} their lives.