THE WHITE HOUSE....PRESIDENT RETURNS TO HIS DESK

In familiar surroundings, looking fit, President Eisenhower sits at his desk with Secretary of State Dulles -- a back-to-work portrait, first at the White House since his June 9th operation.

Discussed are foreign policy and plans for the conference of presidents of the American republics, which Mr. Eisenhower will attend in Panama. There's a busy schedule before that departure, as he happily gets back into the swing of White House activity.
