Prohibition of the Communists Party in the Federal Republic

The "Federal Constitutional Court in Karlsruhe" has pronounced the Communists Party of Germany to be unconstitutional and has prohibited this Party. This prohibition was ^{accepted} received without especial surprise, and the actions of the police were accomplished without any incidents.

In East Berlin, ten thousands of people were ordered for a protest action in this matter. Karl Schirdewan, member of the Polit-bureau of the SED (Social Units Party), and the deputy-chairman of the Ministers Council of the German Democratic Republic (DDR), Otto Nuschke (with beard) hold speeches.
