

NEW YORK FIRE FIGHTERS.

261

New York's Fire Fighters put on a show in the street with half-a-million dollars' worth of new equipment. The latest extending ladders stretch to a height of 85 feet --- though in a city of skyscrapers ten times as high they've still got a long way to go. But from some angles the giant ladders look almost as tall as Manhattan's tallest.

SCHMELING.

When Max Schmeling met Joe Louis the Brown Bomber blew up --- in other words Max won. I'm now going to hand over to our soprano commentator.

MAGIC CIRCLE.

When the Magician's circle meets you never know quite what's going to happen so we only sent a very small cameraman in case we lost him. I don't quite know what they're up to --- but they chain each other up and put each other in sacks and --- ~~fixxxxx~~ ~~xxxxxxx~~ did they mean to do that, d'you think? Best of all was the blindfold tennis. I wish they'd try it at W@mbledon --- and if they blindfold the spectators as well ~~xx~~ it might stop their heads wagging from side to side.
