

280

SPAIN.

Our cameraman at Irun and Zaragossa has sent back dramatic pictures of the fighting in the key area of the Spanish civil war --- the fate of these towns determines the fate of Spain. At Burgos the rebels and Government troops are at close quarters. Following artillery bombardment the insurgent troops raid a hill-top and pick up ~~an~~ an outpost. / Daily the toll of dead and wounded mounts higher. Under the hail of rifle and shell-fire you see our cameraman's discarded car, disabled ~~xx~~ in the action in which many lost their lives. Here at San Sebastian Government troops are seen raiding a farmhouse where the occupants, ~~xxx~~ suspected of rebel activities --- are captured, searched and taken away. Not far away towns and villages are blazing under the incendiary bombs of air-raiders. / General Cabanellas, head of the Provisional Government, is confident of victory as fresh contingents of Moors from across the water ~~continue to~~ march towards Madrid. /