

HOLIDAY.

375-

All the roads leading out of the big cities were packed with traffic when the great summer holiday exodus began. Father and Mother and the kids and the dog all went to find the sun. It's always a bit of a problem what to do with the baby when you're travelling, and the answer is to let him travel in his own way. Nearly every healthy boy wants to drive a tram, and here's a childhood dream come true. Washing is also a problem --- unfortunately you have to wash at holiday times just as much as any other ~~until you're grown up~~ except father. And now for the open seaside. A dress Parade at Margate showed the kind of costume specially recommended for the girl who wants the minimum of attire, and the maximum of attention. Not only at Margate, but anywhere. A bathing belle is a bathing belle all the world over. And when you tire of the beauties of the scenery, if you ever do --- there's always the rival attraction of the fun-fair. For those who delight in sterner pursuits, the holiday provides a wealth of entertainment --- race meetings of the horse and car vicing with each other to thrill you and take your money. At the journey's end, the driver gets out of the car ----- if he can!
